When you shop with us, you can choose to view through PayPal or Opayo, both of which are registered leaders in the field of secure transaction processing. PayPal We use industry-leading internet payment PayPal to protect your card information and protect you from fraud. PayPal to keep your information safe. We never actually see your bank or credit card data, they are transferred in a very secure way directly to PayPal processing. The industry's leading fraud prevention is just one of the PayPal is a safe way to pay online. PayPal proprietary technology and constantly innovate to monitor transactions and maintain a secure payment system. To help you keep track of account activity, PayPal sends an email confirmation for each account transaction. For more information, visit www.paypal.co.uk Opayo When you shop with us, our secure server encrypts all your personal information, including name, address and credit card information. We use Opayo, which is an industry leader in secure internet transactions. Opayo is used for the security of thousands of other UK business transactions. All information about transactions transferred between our website and the Opayo payment system is encrypted using 128-bit SSL certificates. No card user information has ever been passed unencrypted and all messages from Opayo are signed using MD5 hashing to prevent manipulation. You can be completely secure by learning that nothing transferred to Opayo can verify, use or modify any third party trying to access confidential information. Once on the Opayo system, all sensitive data is provided using the same internationally recognized 256-bit encryption standards used, among other things, by the U.S. Government. Encryption keys are held in state-of-the-art, forgery-proof systems in the same family that are used to secure VeriSign's Global Root certificate, making them all but impossible to obtain. They have very reliable data at their disposal and are regularly audited by banks and banking institutions to ensure that they are so. Opayo has several private links to the banking network that are completely separate from the Internet and which do not cross any publicly accessible networks. Any cardholder's information sent to banks and any return ing authorization message is secure and cannot be changed. No individual in our company or Opayo can decrypt transaction information or cardholder data. Their systems only allow access to our senior staff and only in aggravating situations (e.g. police card fraud investigations). Your card information is secure even from your employees because the system will never display full card numbers, even on administration screens.
